If you are dissatisfied with the alternative course of study proposed and consider that the material changes to your course have prejudicially affected you, you will be entitled to withdraw from your course without any further liability for course fees. consequential loss where such loss or damage is a result of theft, fire, flood, computer virus or any cause related to our computer facilities, or any other cause, except where such loss or damage is caused by our negligence. It is recommended that you insure personal property against such risk of loss and damage.

15.4 Neither you, nor the University, will be liable for failure to perform any obligations under this Contract if the failure arises from circumstances that are beyond that party's reasonable control. In the case of the University, circumstances beyond its reasonable control include (but are not limited to) acts of, or implementation of action required by, local government, the UK government or a regulatory body; closure of part or all of the University for health and safety reasons; power failure; acts of terrorism; industrial action or other similar action by University staff. 15.5 The University will take reasonable steps to ensure that, so far as possible in the circumstances, the consequences of a failure to act in accordance with this Contract as a result of circumstances beyond the University's control are kept to a minimum. Actions which the University may take to minimise any adverse effects include, but are not limited to, alternative forms of teaching delivery and/or location, alternative forms of assessment, substitutions for teaching staff or modifications to the Course content.

15.6 To the fullest extent permitted under the laws of England and Wales, the University excludes liability for any losses suffered by you as a result of circumstances beyond the University's reasonable control. Subject to clause 15.1 and any restrictions in statute or at common law, the aggregate liability of the University (however arising including (but not limited to) contract and negligence) shall not exceed the total of the Fees paid and due to be paid by you in relation to your Course.
